

Certificate in Oil & Gas Management

The Postgraduate Certificate in Oil and Gas Management at Greenwich School of Management is designed to introduce course members to the complexities of the oil and gas industries and to equip them with relevant skills and knowledge required to make them effective practitioners within the oil and gas sectors. On completion of the programme, course members should have a cogent understanding of the principles surrounding the management of the extractive industries.

Tuition

There are lectures and tutorials in all modules and the learning process is augmented by participation in case studies and group work. This allows course members to understand the theoretical concepts of management by applying them to problems in the real world.
